

BIOGRAPHY

A professional photographer and member of The National Press Photographers Association and The Art Directors Club of New York for over 20 years, Roy Weinstein has explored an array of techniques, processes and subject matter in his photography. His approach and process reflects a true marriage between art and technology. A former graphic artist, Roy believes an artist should synthesize all the elements surrounding a subject. His work has appeared, over the last two decades, in national and regional publications including: The New York Times, Women's Wear Daily, Newsday, Travel/Holiday, W Magazine, and many other magazines and newspapers across the country. Weinstein has exhibited in gallery and private exhibitions and his artwork hangs in private homes, corporate offices and hotels throughout the country.
